This Week—

By M. I. N. I.

For pacifist attention: Cardinal Hayes, celebrating a pontifical mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral for officers and men of the Fleet, described unpreparedness as "supreme folly." Bishop Manning, in his sermon at St. John's Cathedral for the Fleet's personnel, declared that extreme pacifism is not Christian and that "if we wish our land protected we must provide for its protection." Surely such convictions from eminent Ecclesiasts will stem the tide of Church propaganda against an adequate Army and Navy.

Here is praise for the Navy from a soldier of distinction, Maj. Gen. Dennis E. Nolan, commanding the 2nd Corps Area, who, as Grand Marshal and with Admiral Sellers and the Mayor of New York, reviewed the combined Army and Fleet parade last Saturday: "How the sailors do it (march with precision) in the little time they have off the ships is beyond me!" The gobs know, General, it is by keeping at it!

One word more about New York's reception: Thanks to the Governor, the Mayor and Hon. Grover Whalen, chairman of the City's committee, the program of entertainment was interesting and complete, thanks to the morale of the Fleet there were practically no disorders to the delighted amazement of the police, and because of the arrangements made the horde of visitors was well taken care of aboard the ships. New York has done well, so has the Fleet!

How England does look after those who serve her well! Did you notice the announcement that Lady Haig, widow of the British World War commander-in-chief, has been provided, rent free, with a suite of apartments at Hampton Court Palace? And yet our widows of distinguished officers are allowed a pittance of less than $30 per month, and many of them are still suffering from the economy cut ordered by the President. We should follow the example of King George.

The Baltimore School Board, after hearing a group of objectors, authorized officers of the Army to address sealer high school students in the interest of the C. M. T. C. Congratulations, General Malone.

In Maryland they are calling Colonel Harry N. Cootes "Salesman of the Army" because of the way in which he stresses training for the development of leadership. Making as they do for better O. R. C. and R. O. T. C., such talks are valuable in producing good citizens and in providing a reservoir for use in emergency.

Combating the hysteria for suppression of traffic in arms and ammunition. Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, Adjutant General of Maryland and Vice President

In the upper photograph is shown one of the Coast Artillery's 155-mm. GPF guns such as was fired yesterday at Ft. Story, Va., by the student officers of the Coast Artillery School in a demonstration to which members of Congress were invited. This weapon is towed by a tractor. The lower photograph shows a battery of 75-mm. Field Artillery guns motorized with light commercial trucks. A battery such as this, from the 1st Artillery at Ft. Sill, took part in maneuvers just concluded with the Mechanized First Cavalry at Ft. Riley, Kans. In the first line, battery headquarters, are four Station wagons and a wire laying truck, in the second line, the firing battery, is a station wagon, four gun sections, and a truck with supplies, accessories and additional ammunition; in the last line, maintenance section, is a station wagon, two supply trucks, a ration truck, a kitchen truck, a trouble truck, and a pick-up truck.

Navy and Marine Corps Promotion Developments

NAVY LINE PERSONNEL

Looking to a revision of the present percentage of officers in the various grades of the Line of the Navy at the next Congress, study of the question was started in both the House and the Navy Department this week.

In pursuance of the declaration of Representative Carl Vinson, on the floor of the House, that the Naval Affairs Committee would "bring in" next winter, a bill revising the percentages, a special sub-committee was named this week to study the problem and report back to the naval committee at the beginning of the next Congress. At the same time, Rear Adm. William D. Leahy, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, set officers to work to determine

Marine Corps selection boards, authorized under the new law to recommend officers for promotion to all ranks from captain to brigadier generals, will be convened at the Navy Department June 25, it was stated at Headquarters yesterday.

Delays in compiling the records of approximately 600 officers whose names will be submitted to the two boards, make it impossible for the work to start next week, as was at first planned. The date—June 25—was set this week and it is expected that the make-up of the boards will be announced within the next few days.

Pay Period Advances Threatened by Ruling

Expectation that officers of the uniformed services would on July 1, 1934 enter the higher pay periods earned but denied under economy legislation since July 1, 1932 becomes a matter of grave doubt as the result of a decision by Comptroller General J. Raymond McCarl.

Until the issuance of the Comptroller's ruling no one had questioned that Congress in enacting the Independent Offices bill over the President's veto clearly intended that officers of the services and civilian employees governed by laws providing automatic increases would on July 1, 1934 enter into the pay periods which they would have entered had not the prior economy laws been enacted.

However, Comptroller McCarl in a letter to the Postmaster General appears to hold, in effect, that the first two years of the original economy legislation (July 1, 1932 to June 30, 1934) never even existed and that service for the purpose of computing pay grades stopped on July 1, 1932 and starts counting again on July 1, 1934. If applied to the armed services—and it is understood unofficially that McCarl intends to so apply it—it would mean that insofar as pay computation is concerned the two years in question are completely wiped out. For example, in the case of an officer who was due to enter a higher pay period on Jan. 1, 1933 but was denied the increased pay because of the economy legislation it has been assumed that on July 1 next he would begin receiving the pay of the higher period; but if the decision applies to the services he will have to wait until Jan. 1, 1935 to officially enter the new period and receive the higher pay.

Prior to the ruling no one, not even the Postmaster General who made the inquiry that resulted in the decision, appeared to have any doubt but that the intent of Congress would be carried out.

The comptroller general's letter to the Postmaster General, quoting the original inquiry, is as follows (the portion particularly dangerous to the services is italicized):

The Honorable,
The Postmaster General.

Sir: There has been received your letter of May 7, 1934, as follows:

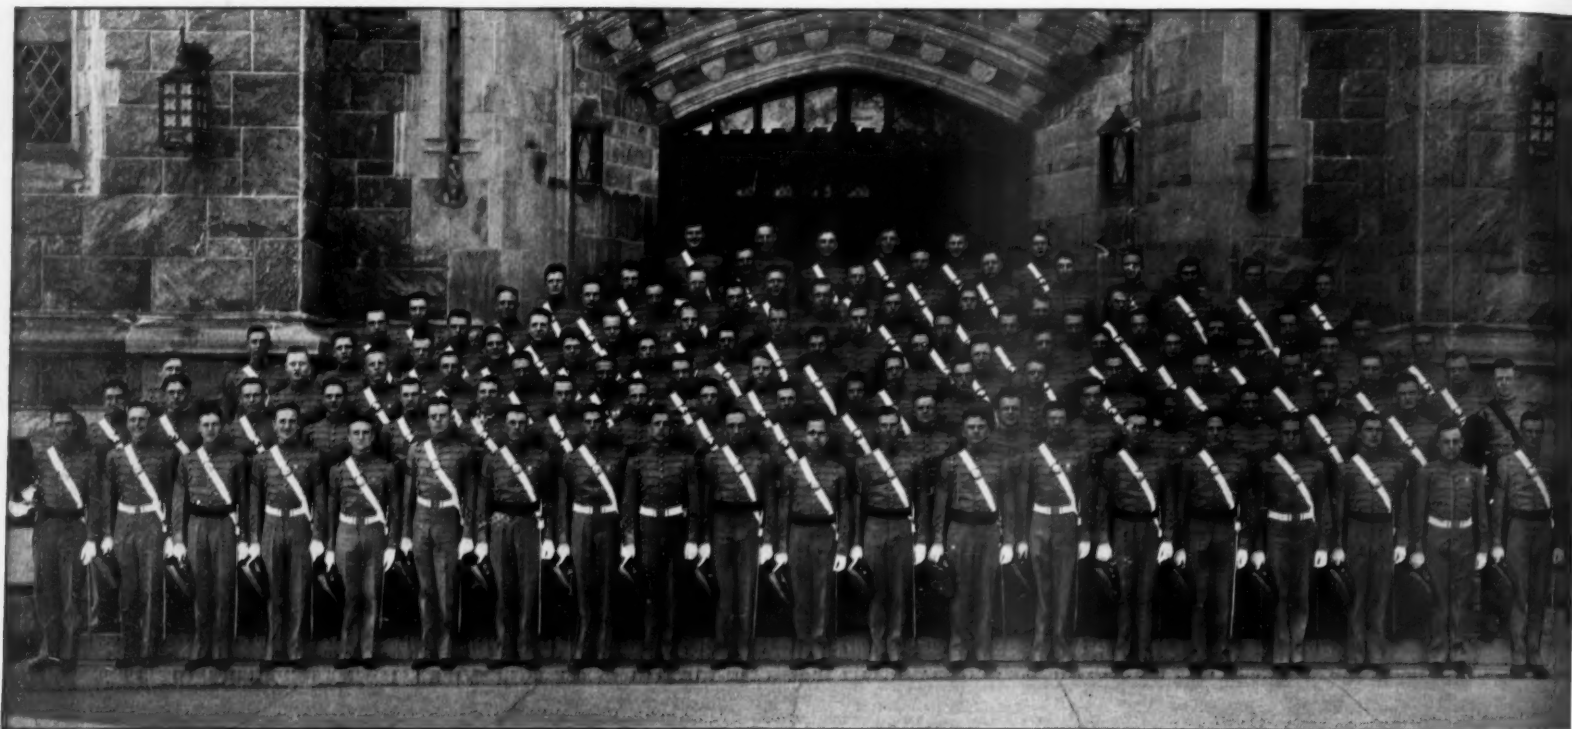

"Section 4 of the Act of February 28, 1925, reclassifying the salaries of postmasters and employees of the Postal Service provides: 'That clerks in first and second class post offices and letter carriers in the City Delivery Service shall be divided into five grades as follows: First grade—salary $1700; second grade—salary $1800; third grade—salary $1900; fourth grade—salary $2000; fifth grade—salary $2100.' * * * Provided Further, That clerks in first and second grade post offices and letter carriers in the City Delivery Service shall be promoted successively after one year's satisfactory service in each grade to the next higher grade until they reach the fifth grade."

"The right to automatic promotion was suspended under the provisions of Section 201 of the Act of June 30, 1932, (the Legislative Appropriation Act, fiscal year 1933) which reads as follows:

"All provisions of law which confer upon

You can't possibly imagine the delightful freshness of the air on Chesapeake and Ohio thru trains, unless you think of the air that fills your lungs in mid-ocean. The salty tang may be missing in the train, but dust and cinders and parched dryness are also absent. Genuine air-conditioning draws in fresh air, cleanses it, tempers it to comfortable mildness, and then circulates it to every part of the Pullman cars. Chesapeake and Ohio thru trains are modern to the minute. You relax in observation-lounge cars finer than many a club. You enjoy good meals at moderate prices. You ride on a smooth road-bed—sleep all night—awake well rested and clean. With all these advantages, you pay no extra fare. The ticket agent of any railroad can route you on the Chesapeake and Ohio. THE U. S. NAVY

Navy Commissions New Carrier

The USS Ranger, first U. S. aircraft carrier built as such, was commissioned at the Naval Operating Base, Norfolk, Va., June 4 under command of Capt. Arthur L. Bristol, USN, by the Commandant of the Fifth Naval District, Rear Adm. Arthur St. Clair Smith, USN.

Under plans announced by the Navy Department, the 13,800-ton carrier will remain at the Operating Base until the middle of August, when she will begin her shakedown cruise. Speed and other trials were successfully conducted by the builders, Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, off Rockland, Maine, on May 13, 1934.

The Ranger, named in honor of the flagship of Commodore John Paul Jones of Revolutionary fame, is the first vessel of the United States Navy to have been designed and constructed as an airplane carrier, other carriers now in commission having been converted for that duty from other type of construction; the USS Langley, from the collier USS Jupiter, and the USS Lexington and USS Saratoga, having been originally laid down and designed as battle cruisers.

Characteristics of the Ranger are: Displacement, 13,800 tons; length on the water line, 727 feet; beam, 80 feet 2 inches; mean draft, 19 feet. The Ranger will carry a total of 72 planes of various types.

The schedule of employment for the Ranger will be:

June 4-June 22—Fitting out period, tests and trials at sea as desired or as directed. Base on Naval Operating Base, Norfolk and on Hampton Roads.

June 23-August 1—At Navy Yard, Norfolk, for authorized work.

August 2-16—Shakedown period, operations at sea and at anchor as desired for trial and test. Base on Hampton Roads and Southern Drill Grounds.

Aug. 17-Sept. 19—Shakedown cruise. No plans have as yet been completed for this period.

Sept. 20-Oct. 14—Operations at sea or at anchor, tests and trials as desired. Material inspection by Board of Inspection and survey. Base on Hampton Roads.

Oct. 15, until completion authorized Navy Yard Work—At Navy Yard, Norfolk, and at sea for trials. Docking and preparation for final trials. Final trials under Board of Inspection and Survey. Completion of authorized work. Complete preparations for joining fleet.

When completed, depart Hampton Roads and report for duty by dispatch to the Commander-in-Chief U. S. Fleet.

Dedicate Barnett Memorial
A tablet in memory of the late Maj. Gen. George Barnett USMC, was dedicated at the Washington Cathedral yesterday afternoon. The tablet was presented by General Barnett's friends in the Marine Corps.

President Roosevelt, in a letter commending the memorial, said:

"The proposal to dedicate a memorial to Maj. Gen. George Barnett has my hearty approval.

"His sincere patriotism and faithful service to his fellowmen are widely known, as is his loyal and valiant service to his country.

"It is with this thought in mind that we pay homage to a man whose life's record will be an inspiration to carry on to a better national life in all its phases."

General Barnett was born in Baraboo, Wisconsin, Dec. 9, 1859. He entered the Marine Corps from the Navy in 1883. Most of his career as a marine officer was spent at sea. He served in the Philippine Islands during the days of the insurrection, and also in Cuba during the Cuban Pacification. He was a graduate of the Naval War College, and closed his career by being the wartime Commandant of the Marine Corps.

SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1934

"In every civilized country success in war depends upon the organization and application of its military resources. The resources themselves consist of men, material and money. Their organization is wholly within the province of the statesman."—EMORY UPTON.

THE GENERAL PUBLIC HAS COME TO ACCEPT as normal the maneuvers the Fleet is constantly conducting. It recognizes that such maneuvers are essential in order to fit it to apply our maximum naval power first in the realm of strategy and then in that of tactics. Because the Navy must always be kept in a state of readiness, the cost of executing the problems drafted is comparatively immaterial. The Armies of the United States, however, are in a different situation. The Regular Establishment is the nucleus for the Four Armies which largely are on paper. It is undesirable, indeed, it would be highly objectionable in time of peace, to mobilize such a tremendous force, and no one, at least in authority, would dream of making the suggestion. But the machinery for mobilization, movement, and strategical and tactical operation can be tested—it is already blue-printed in accordance with General Staff studies—and this is the object of the G. H. Q. Maneuvers ordered by General MacArthur. As few troops will be involved, the cost will be small but the results will be of great value. The problem will be to resist invasion by Armies to land at a point on our eastern shores unknown to the defenders, and, perhaps, simultaneously to occupy the Pacific coast. It will be the mission of the defense to locate and drive the "enemy" into the sea, and this, of course, will call for mobilization, concentration and movement of superior forces. To some extent the Grand Maneuvers will be a mere gesture; the number of troops available to take part in them is negligible in part because of the smallness of the Army and the distribution over the country of the portion within our continental boundaries. Were there available the additional 2,000 officers and 50,000 men contemplated by the Thompson bill, a far more satisfactory operation could be conducted, and certainly it would be possible then to establish the ability of the Regulars, in conjunction with the National Guard and the Reserves, to keep American soil free from the foot of an invader. However, General MacArthur must use the tools he has in hand, and even with the small force to be detailed as actors in the maneuvers, he will be able to gain from the experience some lessons which would be valuable in time of emergency. Congress showed wise judgment in authorizing the training expenditure, and it is to be hoped that in future provision will be made for annual concentrations and operations so that the Army, like the Navy, will have the opportunity in actual practice to test the theoretical studies of the General Staff.

AT THE MOMENT THE GENEVA DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE is verging on disruption and the President is sending a delegation to London to begin bi-lateral conversations with the British Government respecting naval limitation. Secretary Swanson is announcing an allotment of $40,000,000 from the expected PWA appropriation for the construction of destroyers and submarines, and his purpose to ask Congress to increase the enlisted personnel of the sea organization. While Mr. Swanson undoubtedly made public his plans in order to influence both Geneva and London, to prevent the failure of the former and induce a limitation agreement at London, the fact remains that if no disarmament reduction be agreed upon the proposed ships will be built and the Administration will insist upon ample provision in the way of man strength. This is as it should be. The developments at Geneva have demonstrated conclusively that no progress can be expected in the way of disarmament. In fact, what has transpired gives proof of the intention of the participating foreign governments to make provision for their security to the utmost possible extent. The suggestion of the President in the War Debt message that the money being spent for armaments could be diverted to payments to the United States fell on deaf ears; Great Britain, for example, preferred to default. Likewise, no heed was paid to the President's notification that the United States will not longer engage in disarmament by example. Supplemented by the Swanson declaration, he has served notice that the United States, while living up to its treaty obligations, proposes to put itself in a position to resist attack. With this determination, Mr. Roosevelt's fellow citizens will be in entire agreement. They in common with the Services will hope that the mad race in armaments will be at least arrested, but if not then with the Treaty Navy and the Army increased to the modest limit proposed by the Thompson bill, our country will be in a position to deter foreign governments from proceeding with plans to compel us to meet their views, perhaps in the way of cancellation of the debts, perhaps in curbing the effort soon to be launched to expand our trade at their expense, perhaps in limiting our activities in the Far East.

THIS IS A PLEA TO THE HOUSE MILITARY COMMITTEE to take steps to expedite Army promotion reform. We have learned this week that the Committee is disposed to action, but it is unwilling to move until the situation in the Air Corps has been straightened out. Once the reorganization of the high command of that Corps has been effected, the Committee, we are told, will press vigorously to provide the Army with a promotion system which it is hoped will be generally satisfactory. To some extent this is a reassuring development, but it is obvious it means a bill will not be perfected until the next session of Congress. However, there is one step the Committee can take at this time. That is the adoption for the lower ranks of the Army of the mandatory time requirement of promotion for ensigns and lieutenants in the Navy. Such action would be a stimulant to efficiency and applying as it would to all branches it would at the same time give recognition to those worthy 2d and 1st Lieutenants in the Air Corps who admittedly perform gallant and excellent service especially in connection with the carriage of the mails.

A Choice

A burglar's wife was being vigorously cross-examined by the county attorney. "Madam, you are the wife of this prisoner?"

"Yes."

"You knew he was a burglar when you married him?"

"Yes."

"May I ask how you came to marry such an individual?"

"You may," snapped the witness. "You see, I was getting old and had to choose between a burglar and a lawyer."

(The cross-examination ended abruptly.)

Sweet And Low

A demure young bride walked slowly down the church aisle clinging to the arm of her father. As she reached the platform before the altar her dainty foot brushed a potted flower, upsetting it. She looked at the stilled church gravely, then raised her large child-like eyes to the sedate face of the old minister.

"That's a hell of a place to put a lily," she said.

Or A Professor

One of the most absent-minded men was Painleve, thrice premier of France. It is said that he would take a taxi home when his own car was waiting for him. When the taxi-driver asked his address he often gave his telephone number. Once, expecting a friend, he pinned a note on his door: "Painleve will return in 15 minutes." On returning he saw his own note and sat down on the step and waited for himself.

A Problem In Division

M. P.—"Say, soldier, how many times do I have to tell you to beat it?" Soldier—"Not even once—if it's a question of mathematics!"

M. P.—"So you're one of those fresh guys, eh? Well, if it's mathematics you understand, then get this! If you ain't outa here pronto I'll add to your misery by subtracting you from that bar so fast you'll wonder how one man's troubles can multiply so quickly!"

"What is your idea of a gentleman farmer?"

"He's a person," answered Farmer Cornstassel, "who is so well fixed that he can waste profanity on a golf ball instead of on a mule."

The report of the Naval Ration Board will doubtless meet with favor from those most interested, viz., the enlisted men. The addition of bacon, sausage, compressed beef and dried fish to the present allowance, and the occasional presence of other canned meats than Jack's favorite aversion soup and bully, will no doubt be gladly welcomed, to say nothing of the prospect of fresh mutton, pork or fish, with a liberal amount of potatoes and onions.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Navy Staff Promotion—Consideration of the Navy Staff Corps personnel bill at the present Congress was abandoned by the House Naval Affairs Committee this week. In discontinuing hearings on the measure, however, the Committee took a step which should enhance its chances next winter. A special subcommittee of the group was appointed to hold hearings and study the project this summer and fall and report back at the opening of the 74th Congress next January.

In designating the membership of the special subcommittee, following the action of the committee June 4, Chairman Carl Vinson stated that the full committee would follow whatever recommendations are made next winter by the subcommittee and will report to the House any bill approved by it without further consideration. The members of the subcommittee are: Representative Patrick H. Drewry, Dem. of Va., chairman; Representative Colgate G. Darden, Dem. of Va.; Representative Fred A. Britten, Rep. of Ill., and Representative George P. Darrow, Rep. of Pa. All of the group except Representative Darden have had long service on the naval committee. Congressman Drewry is the ranking Democrat after Chairman Vinson, while Representatives Britten and Darrow are the two senior minority members. Representative Darden, while a "baby" member of the committee, is by no means ignorant of service personnel questions, having been an officer in the Marine Corps at one time.

No plans have been as yet formulated by the group as to proceeding, but it is expected that the hearings, when started, will go over much of the ground already covered by the full committee. Practically no one on the committee obtained a very comprehensive grasp of the complicated Staff Corps promotion system at the hearings thus far.

It is regarded as fairly certain that the bill will be amended to provide promotion by selection in advancement to lieutenant and lieutenant commander. Representative Britten has asked the Navy Department to draft an amendment to this effect and members of the committee generally seem to favor such action. This amendment will probably provide for unlimited selection to these two grades, subject to the requirement that an officer's line running mate must have been selected. Selection to lieutenant and to lieutenant commander will be more "plucking out" than selection up, it is believed, no drastic elimination being likely.

Whether the provision for selection of Staff captains for promotion to rear admiral upon retirement will remain in the bill is doubtful. This feature of the bill has met opposition and though Staff officers hope to win over those who have expressed themselves as against it, the prospects are not bright.

Military Disbursements—On May 29, 1934, the President signed an executive order, discussed more in detail hereafter, which constituted one of the sturdiest blows that have been struck for national defense in more than a decade. To get the full importance of this act it will be necessary to recount a little recent history, as follows:

On June 10, 1933, Executive Order No. 6166 was promulgated by the President providing, so far as is here material, that the disbursing function as then exercised by all agencies in the executive branch of the Government should be transferred to a new disbursing agency to be set up under the Treasury Department.

The order just cited had been drafted under conditions of stress and haste and no doubt its proponents had never intended that it should have any application to the military services. However, it was soon apparent that the clear and positive directive therein contained left the administrative officials upon whom fell the task of carrying it into effect no choice or alternative in the matter but to apply it, as soon as feasible, to the Army, Navy and Marine Corps to exactly the same extent to which it was applicable to civilian Government agencies. Immediately, therefore, a feeling closely approximating consternation arose in the military services, since it was seen that this executive order in so far as it applied to the armed forces of the nation, aimed a fearful blow at the national defense in that it ran counter to a military principle as old as the most ancient Army of which history takes note, and as true as truth itself. This principle is that there can be no separation of responsibility from authority in the high command of armies or navies; and that when a commander is charged with a great responsibility, authority of equal measure must go hand in hand with this responsibility if the commander is to accomplish his directive without let or hindrance from his own Government. Indeed one had as well charge a carpenter with the building of a house without some one or more of the absolutely necessary tools or any substitute therefor, as to expect an Army or Navy to function adequately without the authority to administer such an important function of supply as is that of disbursement of funds to meet the cost of such supply.

Accordingly, from the very day on which the executive order of June 10, 1933, was issued active efforts were exerted, chiefly upon the initiative of the Chief of Finance of the Army to procure the revocation of that executive order in so far as it pertained to the disbursing function in the armed forces. The Chief of Finance, in addition to his conviction that the order could not but detract seriously from the authority and successful accomplishment of the military mission of the high command of the military services had a special problem all his own growing out of the order, that problem being the difficulty he encountered after the promulgation of the order in filling vacancies in the commissioned personnel of his corps. Before the issuance of the order he had always had a waiting list of well qualified and highly desirable applicants for appointment in the Finance Department from among the commissioned personnel of the other branches of the Army; but when the officers making up this waiting list saw what was in contemplation for the Finance Department under the executive order in question, they simply withdrew their names therefrom.

All through last winter and spring by means of conferences, memoranda and well-nigh pleading, the campaign went on for the release of the military services from the operation of the order that would have left the high command of the military forces with all the responsibility with which it had ever been charged for military success but with an authority so weakened by the loss of financial control as to make the accomplishment of the military mission extremely hazardous, if not impossible.

Finally the campaign reached the happy point when on May 29, the President as before stated, signed and dispatched to Congress another executive order expressly revoking the said executive order of June 10, 1933, in so far as it pertained to the disbursing function of the War and Navy Departments, including the Marine Corps, and the Panama Canal, the President grasping at once the force of the argument, when finally presented to him, that on the point in question, the original order, although conceived in the best of intentions, most clearly was not in the interest of national defense.

All credit to Maj. Gen. F. W. Coleman, the present Chief of Finance of the Army, and the officers of his own and the other military services who aided him in his hard fought campaign.

Army to Aid Drought Relief Program—Plans are being made by the Agriculture Adjustment Administration to have the Army Quartermaster Corps spend $100,000,000 for the purchase of forage for the drought-stricken states. The money is not yet available, but the bill appropriating it is expected to pass shortly.

It is planned to have Army Quartermasters make the purchases in a wide circle of states and to ship it directly to the stricken areas where it will be delivered to distributing centers and the Army's responsibilities cease. Payment for the purchases also will be handled by the Army Finance Department, which has so successfully made the disbursements for the other emergency organizations.

Canal Zone Junior College—The Division of Schools of the Panama Canal Zone has for many years maintained a public school system equivalent to the best school systems in the United States. Recently the system has been still further extended by the opening of the Canal Zone Junior College.

The junior college which is located at Balboa on the Pacific side of the isthmus, offers the first two years of college work. Courses in engineering, liberal arts and commercial fields are included in the curriculum. The enrollment of the junior college for the year 1934-35 is expected to be in excess of one hundred students.

The junior college has recently been accredited by the American Association of Junior Colleges and students are able to transfer from the Canal Zone Junior College to colleges in the states on the same basis as from any college in the United States. The college will occupy a new $300,000 concrete building in September 1934. The tuition rate of $180 is charged for students whose parents are employed by the Panama Canal or who are members of the military establishment. The College year opens on September 24.

During 1933-34 a number of students transferred from the states to the Canal Zone Junior College and it is expected that many young people whose parents are connected with the army or navy will avail themselves of the opportunities that the Canal Zone Junior College provides. Any one interested in securing information concerning the junior college should address the Superintendent of Schools, Balboa Heights, Canal Zone.

West Point Board of Visitors—Senators Coolidge, Reynolds and Cary who recently visited the United States Military Academy this week filed their report in the Senate. The report gave great praise to the conduct of the Academy and of the students. Only two recommendations were made: "(1) That future Senate Boards of Visitors make the visit each year as a body and with complete membership, and spend not less than three days at the Academy. (2) That all appropriations for building at the Academy specify that such construction should be such material and architecture as to completely harmonize in appearance and permanency with the principal granite buildings."

The Navy in New York—The stay of the Navy in New York City is winning many friends for the service. The parade of sailors and Marines on Fifth Avenue June 2 elicited unstinted praise from the city heads as well as from the Army officers and vociferous applause from the quarter of a million New Yorkers who lined the sidewalks.

Last Sunday Cardinal Hayes celebrated a pontifical mass for officers and men of the Fleet at St. Patrick's Cathedral, telling them that naval unpreparedness at such a critical period would be "supreme folly." In the Cathedral of St. John the Divine Bishop William T. Manning denounced pacifist extremists who feel that "peace at any price" is worth while. A total of 2,150 officers and men are estimated to have heard the Bishop.

Biographies of Army Officers—The Senate Committee on Military Affairs has reported a resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to compile and publish a register containing brief military biographies of all regular officers of the Army for the period beginning with 1775 and ending Dec. 31, 1934.

A compilation by John J. Lenney entitled "America Secure Analytical Register of Regular Army Officers and Security Statistics with Graphs" now complete from 1775 to 1923 would be brought down to date by Mr. Lenney and form the register, the resolution provides.

Honor Captain Hobson—Appointment of former Capt. Richmond P. Hobson to be a rear admiral on the retired list of the Navy was unanimously voted by the House, June 2, exactly 36 years to a day since he sank the collier Merrimac in Havana harbor.

Members of the House, many of whom served with Captain Hobson during his years in Congress, joined to praise his career as a naval officer, congressman and lately for his leadership in the international fight against dope. As the bill was passed, the congressmen rose and cheered Captain Hobson who was in the gallery.

As the bill had already been passed by the Senate, it was sent to the President for signature.

General Ainsworth's Will—In his will filed in the District of Columbia Supreme Court this week, the late Maj. Gen. Fred C. Ainsworth, USA-Ret., left $150,000 and an undetermined additional sum to Elizabeth Kerwin, described as a nurse at Walter Reed Hospital, and $24,000 to Ann Coghlan, described as formerly being at Walter Reed Hospital.

Archbishop Michael J. Curley of Baltimore is given $100,000 for the use and training of homeless children, and the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children is to have $75,000. Now There's a Way to End Film to Keep Teeth Really Clean

THERE have been many false theories about teeth-cleaning. Many ways which seemed good have proved worthless—in fact, are now known to be harmful.

Pepsodent is called the special film-removing tooth paste. When you use it, you will know the reason.

The basis is a special cleansing and polishing material. Its object is to remove film—safely, thoroughly.

We found that some cleansing materials removed film but scratched enamel. Others were safe but ineffective. That fact made the development of the ideal material seem impossible.

But, after 13 years, the ideal material was developed. It is accepted as one of the truly great discoveries of the day. This new material is unique in film-removing power. It is twice as soft as those commonly used in tooth pastes, thus it is absolutely safe. Safe for children and adults. It is this discovery that makes Pepsodent different in formula and result.

Just try this scientific way once. We believe you will never return to any method which leaves your teeth coated with film.

selection will be submitted to the boards. In addition all officers in the grade of captain and above who will have completed four years' service in grade on June 30, 1934, and all first lieutenants who will have completed three years in grade to that date will be submitted for consideration. The senior board will consider the names of the senior 15 colonels for selection to brigadier general, all of the lieutenant colonels (44) for selection to colonel and the senior 89 majors for selection to lieutenant colonel. They will select two colonels, ten lieutenant colonels and 52 majors. Also they will consider all of the colonels for the eligible lists for heads of the staff departments.

While the law permits the number of selections to captain and major to be any number fixed by the Secretary of the Navy, it is planned to make the same percentage of selections this first time as are to be made in the upper ranks, i. e., 10 per cent of the higher grade plus the number of expected vacancies. Thus the junior board will select 92 captains to go on the promotion list for major and 89 first lieutenants to go on that promotion list for captain. The names of the 246 senior captains and the 198 senior first lieutenants will be submitted to the board.

Navy Line Bill

the present-day needs for officers of the various ranks.

The naval committee, meeting June 4, voted to discontinue hearings on the Staff Corps personnel bill and turned the whole matter over to a sub-committee to study and report back a bill next January. The special sub-committee, consisting of Representative Patrick H. Drewry, Dem., of Va., chairman, Representative Colgate G. Darden, Dem. of Va., Representative Fred A. Britten, Rep., of Ill., and Representative George Darrow, Rep., of Pa., was also instructed to go into the question of a revision of the line percentages and submit a separate report on this matter at the same time.

Chairman Drewry has called a meeting of his sub-committee for next Friday, June 15, to decide upon a course of procedure. It is expected that the group will not hold hearings until after the fall elections.

While the sub-committee is supposed to confine itself to the Staff Corps bill and the question of revision of the percentages in the Line, one of the group, Representative Darden, of Norfolk, Va., wants to consider the question of retirements under the recently passed Line bill.

"I am opposed to placing so many of these officers on the retired list," Congressman Darden told the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL yesterday. "I was not satisfied with the Line bill we passed this session and I would like to do something about it next year. Several other members of the committee feel the same way I do. I have talked it over with them and with Senator Walsh over on the other side and we would like to make some changes."

Representative Darden declared that he was opposed to the system on two grounds. One was that it would make the retired list so large that a drive would be started in Congress to curtail it, and the other was that he saw no reason for retiring useful officers.

"Why, you would be surprised at the large number of able-bodied retired officers there are around Norfolk, drawing retired pay and also holding down a job which someone else would otherwise have," he said. "I believe we should have elimination of those who are unfit, after say 12 years' service. Those not promoted should be discharged with a year's pay. Then in selecting for the rest of the grades officers who are not promoted but who can perform some duties should be continued on the active list."

Senator Walsh, who has been acting chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee during the latter part of this session, states that he has discussed the matter with Representative Darden and would like to go into the matter further. Senator Trammell, chairman of the Senate Naval Committee, has been facing a stiff fight for his seat and should he be defeated, Senator Walsh will become chairman.

Officers who have considered the matter are of the opinion that the study just started in the Bureau of Navigation as to the required number of Line officers in the various grades, will surely show that an increase in the number of lieutenant commanders and commanders is necessary. Recommendation for a material increase in the number of captains and flag officers is not expected, however. Any increase in the grades above lieutenants, it is pointed out, if approved by Congress, would relieve the drastic elimination which will result from the new law.

It is not expected that the board to select lieutenants and lieutenants, junior grade, will be convened until well into July. Some considerable study is necessary to determine the number of selections to be made by that board.

Threaten Pay Period Advances

civilian or noncivilian officers or employees of the United States Government or the municipal government of the District of Columbia automatic increases in compensation by reason of length of service or promotion are suspended during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933; but this section shall not be construed to deprive any person of any increment of compensation received through an automatic increase in compensation prior to July 1, 1932.

"The provisions of this law were continued for the fiscal year 1934 as authorized in Section 4 (a) of the Act of March 3, 1933, and Section 4 (a), Title II, Act of March 20, 1933.

"The right to automatic promotion was restored for the fiscal year 1935 and is provided for in Section 24 (1) of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act dated March 28, 1934, which reads as follows:

"Section 201 (suspending automatic increases in compensation) of Part II of the Legislative Appropriation Act, fiscal year 1933, is amended by inserting at the end thereof the following: "This section shall not apply during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, except to the extent that it suspends the longevities increases provided for in the tenth paragraph of Section 1 of the Pay Adjustment Act of 1922. This amendment shall not authorize the payment of back compensation."

"It is the opinion of the Post Office Department that an employee on July 1, 1934, should be assigned to the salary grade he would have reached had not the automatic promotions been temporarily suspended, although it is understood that the employee would not be entitled to any back compensation. A specific case is presented of a clerk who was in the $1700 grade and was eligible for advancement to the $1800 grade on July 1, 1932, and under normal conditions would have progressed to the $1900 grade on July 1, 1933, and the $2000 grade on July 1, 1934. In the case cited, it is the Department's opinion that in view of the provisions of the Act of March 28, 1934, restoring automatic promotions for the fiscal year 1935, that the clerk should be advanced to the $2000 grade effective July 1, 1934.

"Your decision is requested as to the Department's interpretation of the law."

It is to be noted that section 201 of the Economy Act completely suspended the operation of all Federal statutes authorizing automatic increases in compensation. Consequently, all such statutes must necessarily be regarded as not having been in existence during the period July 1, 1932, to June 30, 1934, inclusive. Hence, not only was the granting of the automatic increase in compensation prohibited, but also no service during that period may be included in computing longevity to determine either the amount or the effective date of an automatic increase in compensation, as both would necessarily be based upon a statute not operative during such period. It necessarily follows there may be included for the purposes of section 4 of the act of Feb. 28, 1925, only periods of service prior to July 1, 1932, and on and after July 1, 1934, during the fiscal year 1935. See the decisions considering the application of section 103 of the Economy Act, pursuant to which the right to receive annual leave of absence with pay was "suspended" during the period June 30, 1932, to and including March 31, 1933, holding that no leave accrued during the period the act was in effect. 12 Comp. Gen. 575; id. 601; id. 609; 613; id. 621. And with respect to the particular statute here involved it is to be noted also that promotions from grade to grade are specifically restricted to "the next higher grade" thus prohibiting the skipping of one or more grades in any circumstances.

In the specific case presented, therefore, the employee would be entitled to compensation at the rate of $1800 per annum only on July 1, 1934, and not at the rate of $2000 per annum.

Respectfully,
(Signed)

J. R. McCARL,
Comptroller General of the United States.

Since making the adverse ruling for the Post Office Department McCarl also has made a similar ruling for the State Department. Up to this point, it is understood that the War and Navy Departments are not planning to ask for a Holdings of United States Government securities declined $10,000,000 in the St. Louis district and increased $8,000,000 in the Cleveland district, all reporting banks showing no change for the week. Holdings of other securities increased $13,000,000 in the New York district, $9,000,000 in the St. Louis district and $28,000,000 at all reporting banks.

Licensed member banks formerly included in the condition statement of member banks in 101 leading cities, but not now included in the weekly statement, had total loans and investments of $1,006,000,000 and net demand, time and Government deposits of $1,158,000,000 on May 30, compared with $1,014,000,000 and $1,146,000,000, respectively, on May 23.

Admiral Bloch Becomes JAG

Rear Adm. Claude C. Bloch, USN, on June 1 assumed the position of Judge Advocate General of the Navy, relieving Rear Adm. O. G. Murfin, USN, who is to report as Commander, Battleship Division 3, about June 9, 1934.

Admiral Bloch has been Budget Officer of the Navy Department for the past year.

ruling at this time. The Post Office clerks have had a bill introduced by Representative Lamneck to remedy the situation, which bill is aimed to make the intent of Congress perfectly clear and forestall McCarl's ruling going into effect.

Should Congress adjourn without passing a clarifying bill and McCarl continue to insist on his point, it will be necessary to bring a test case to the Court of Claims in order to secure the payments. The opinion is expressed freely in Washington that the Court would overrule the Comptroller, but this might take some time.

The bill introduced by Representative Lamneck to remedy the situation is as follows:

Amending the Independent Offices Appropriation Act of 1935.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That in the administration of the provision in subparagraph (1) of section 10 of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1935, amending section 201 of part II of the Legislative Appropriation Act for the fiscal year 1933, all service rendered by the employee prior to July 1, 1932, and subsequent to June 30, 1932, shall be credited to the employee and such employee appointed to the grade to which he would have progressed had section 201 (suspending automatic increases in compensation) of part II of the Legislative Appropriation Act, fiscal year 1933, not been enacted.

As to the attitude of the War and Navy Departments, their interpretation of the bill is epitomized in a paragraph in a circular sent to officers of the Army Finance Department two months ago:

"For entrance into the next pay period by reason of length of service since June 30, 1932, through the fiscal year 1935, increases in pay and allowances will be allowed from July 1, 1934, or the date of completion of the requisite service (which ever is later), with longevity credits to and including June 30, 1932, on the base pay of the new pay period."

Whether they will be forced to change this interpretation depends on the Comptroller General, Congress, or the Court of Claims.

Approve Naval Construction

Funds for the construction of 225 aeroplanes for the Navy are included in the budget estimates for expenditure under the Public Works bill in addition to the 20 naval vessels therein provided, it was revealed this week.

The emergency appropriation bill carrying these PWA funds was reported to the House by its Appropriations Committee this week and speedily passed and sent to the Senate. While no specific money or language is contained in the bill for naval construction, the testimony of naval officers during the hearings, made public with the reporting of the bill, showed that the budget estimates contemplate an allotment of $40,700,000 to the Navy Department.

Meanwhile Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson announced June 6 that he had signed on that day the contract plans for the 1934-1935 shipbuilding program consisting of the following:

One heavy cruiser, 8-inch guns, 10,000 tons—to be laid down under terms of the London Naval treaty, after Jan. 1, 1935.
Three light cruisers, 6-inch guns, 10,000 tons.

Two heavy destroyers, 1,850 tons.
Twelve light destroyers, 1,500 tons.
Six submarines, about 1,300 tons.
The four cruisers are appropriated for in this year's annual Naval Appropriation bill. The 20 smaller vessels are those provided for in the PWA bill now before the Senate.

As soon as funds are appropriated, the Navy Department will advertise for bids for the construction of these vessels, the Secretary said. The advertising usually requires from 40 to 60 days, so that it is hoped that bids will be opened some time in August.

Rear Adm. C. C. Bloch, USN, then Navy Budget Officer, told the committee that the total cost of the 20 vessels and ordnance will be $112,000,000. Of this amount, $22,430,000 will be allotted for construction next year, he said. The remainder of the $40,700,000 will be spent as follows: $12,832,512 for 225 aeroplanes; $2,600,000 for ordnance for new planes; and about $2,700,000 for the expansion of the Naval Aircraft Factory at Philadelphia.

Rear Adm. Ernest L. King, USN, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, stated that the 225 aeroplanes to be procured under the appropriation will consist of 54 fighters, 12 observation planes, 41 scouting planes, 28 bombers, 32 patrol-bombing planes and 58 training planes. He said that the planes will give the Navy 1,225 planes, 55 less than are needed at present.

The funds for expansion of the Naval Aircraft Factory are provided in accordance with a provision of the Vinson bill requiring that ten per cent of the 1,184 aeroplanes authorized therein be built in Government factories, and that if facilities are not available for this amount of construction that existing facilities be enlarged.

Adm. William H. Standley, USN, Chief of Naval Operations, also testified before the committee. He declared that the Navy Department's approved program of construction is complete only for the first three years. The first year program, already announced, provides for the laying down of one heavy cruiser, three light gun cruisers of 10,000 tons, two destroyers of 1,850 tons, 12 destroyers of 1,500 tons and six submarines. The second year program, he stated, will consist of two 1,850 destroyers, twelve 1,500-ton destroyers, and six submarines, while the third year program provides for laying down in the fiscal year 1937, one 1,850-ton destroyer, twelve 1,500-ton destroyers, and six submarines.

The next best way to keep cool

You're lucky these hot summer days if you have a car with Body by Fisher. For the next best thing to keeping cool by a dip in the water is to use Fisher No Draft Ventilation to scoop in "oceans of air." All you need to do is swing those sturdy Ventipanes wide open—till the outer edges point forward—and they simply flood every corner of the car with coolness...

Another thing you'll appreciate about the safe, smart, strong, new Body by Fisher on a hot long ride is the ROOM—room enough for three people to ride side by side without crowding up together—room that gives the breezes an extra chance to keep you cool in any General Motors car you choose.
